Gang,

I'm rolling out to Parade tomorrow morning and will be there until Thursday. If you're coming, I'm doing a TRSS seminar Monday and would love to see you/recognize your fantastic efforts.

The TRSS program is the strongest it's ever been with 13 regions having done one or more last year or this year and folks are noticing!

So you know, my top priority right now (other than just supporting schools) is to make our minor waiver process easier for parents and organizers. I've got a proposal in front of Ken Laborde (PCA General Counsel) and am awaiting his edits on the waiver to incorporate the ability for one parent to be able to get a kid into an event. There's general support for doing so but as with all things legal, the devil is in the details.

One request: I've got a NSACAR slide of active regions and some logos are better than others. I've enclosed a screenshot of the slide and if you've got a better or newer logo, please send it to me and I'll drop it in the presentation. Full disclosure, I downloaded these from your region websites today so I used what I could get off your sites.

TIRE RACK[®].com STREET SURVIVAL[®]

An intensive, one-day, hands-on, real-world driving skills program for young adults

Tire Rack Street Survival provides:

- Trained and qualified in-car driving instructors as well as classroom experience for each student.
- Hands-on educational driving experience in real-world situations, teaching teens car safety and control in their own vehicles.
- Challenging driving situations, including skid control and emergency lane change on private courses, allowing students to experience abnormal vehicle behavior in a safe and supervised environment.

Six teens ages 16-19
die every day
from motor vehicle injuries.

How much does it cost?

$125 per student.

Why do I use my own vehicle?

We ask that students use the vehicles they normally drive.

Our goal is to teach students how their vehicles react under different driving conditions. Each vehicle has unique handling characteristics — for example, front-wheel-drive versus rear-wheel-drive — and we want students to be comfortable in the vehicle where they spend most of their time. Students should use their daily driver, or the family vehicle, for the driving exercises.

How long does the school last?

The one-day program is a mixture of classroom and hands-on exercises with instructors in the vehicles with the students. In the classroom they learn about proper seating and hand positions, mirror placement, the concept of the contact patch of their tires, the theories of weight transfer, and the use of long distance vision and situational awareness. Then the students are put through a series of exercises that are based on real-world situations. The students learn skid control on a wet skid pad; go through lane change and accident avoidance maneuvers; do braking exercises; and they drive a slalom course to learn about weight transfer. The challenges of driver distractions — such as the radio or navigation systems, cell phones for talking, texting, or selfies; and the significant effect of too many other teens riding with them — are emphasized.

62% of teenage
passenger deaths occurred in vehicles driven by another teenager.

- Participants must be 15-21 years old.
- Students must have an unrestricted driver's license (i.e., not being held by authorities) or permit. If the driver has a permit, that permit must be held for half the time required by the state having jurisdiction, plus a minimum of 25 hours driving experience.
- If under 18, students must have their parents' permission to participate in the Tire Rack Street Survival school, and parents must sign the Minor Waiver.
- Parents are encouraged to attend and participate in the classroom sessions with their teens. They will see the program firsthand, and perhaps learn valuable information themselves!
- Students must present a photocopy of their license, proof of insurance, and the original signed Minor Waiver form (if under 18) to participate in Street Survival schools.

Nearly 50%
of teen driver
fatality accidents involve a single vehicle

Distracted driving crashes kill more than 5,000 people
a year.

Individuals must be between 15-21 years of age.

Think of this as DAY 1 of PDS, however we are NOT teaching students to be fastest or any element of racing. We are teaching them safety!

- Speed limits will be under 40 mph
- Students use their own vehicles
- Cost $125

The one-day program is a mixture of classroom and hands-on exercises with instructors in the vehicles with the students. In the classroom, they learn about proper seating and hand positions, mirror placement, the concept of the contact patch of their tires, the theories of weight transfer, and the use of long distance vision and situational awareness. Students are then put through a series of exercises that are based on real-world situations. They will learn skid control on a wet skid pad, lane change and accident avoidance maneuvers, braking exercises, drive a slalom course to learn about weight transfer. The challenges of driver distractions - such as the vehicles driven radio or navigation systems, cell phones for talking, texting, by another or selfies; and the significant effect of too many other teenagers riding with them - are emphasized. Porsche Will Put Lightweight Carbon-Fiber Windshield Wipers On Your New 911 For The Low, Low Price Of Just $1,310

From Jalopnik, by Daniel Golson, Sept. 8, 2025 11:25 AM EST

I'm sure many of you have the same affliction as me, where instead of just going to sleep at night your brain forces you to spend an hour playing with online car configurators. Many brands have extremely advanced ones these days, with lots of options and fantastic 3D renderings, but Porsche's might be the best. There is just so much stuff to add to modern Porsches, from the PTS colors and other cosmetic options to new technology features, and Porsche is constantly updating its configurator.

The other night when I popped into the configurator for the 2026 911 I noticed a new option I hadn't seen before: Lightweight carbon-fiber wiper arms. And it's not just relegated to models like the GT3 that already offer lightweight packages and lots of carbon options, you can get the carbon wipers on a base 911 Carrera. Best of all, the configurator even renders them onto the car.

They actually do save weight

Yes, at $1,310 these things are expensive as hell, but they do actually have a performance benefit, if a very minor one. Porsche says the carbon-fiber wiper arms are 50% lighter than the standard ones, and the design is "aerodynamically optimized." Even the tiniest bit of improvement does make a difference, especially to nerds ordering something like this, and I will say they look pretty cool. (The photo below is what the normal ones look like in the configurator.) The base 911 Carrera doesn't have many other carbon-fiber exterior options, aside from the $4,040 carbon-fiber roof, but the updated GT3 offers a $37,310 Lightweight Package that saves more than 48 pounds. So what's another thousand-or-so bucks for some carbon-fiber wipers, too?

This isn't the first car from Volkswagen Group to offer carbon-fiber windshield wipers — in fact, Bugatti was the first company ever to make carbon wipers with the Sport version of the Chiron that was revealed in 2018. Said Bugatti, "[They] no longer need the articulated joints which normally feature on conventional wipers. The function of these joints has been integrated into the carbon fibre structure of the wiper arms. In addition, the wiper arm tips, which are made from aluminium, are produced by a weight-saving 3-D printing process. This means that the new carbon fibre wipers are 77 percent or 1.4 kg lighter than their predecessors. In addition, thanks to the new material, the wiper arms have a new profile that allows improved aerodynamic properties." That's the trickle-down effect at work!

Porsche's Owners Seek Defense Industry Investments Amid Slowing Auto Sales

A new WSJ report says that the parent company of both Porsche and Volkswagen is "closely monitoring" these opportunities.

From AutoBlog, by James Ochoa

The Porsche family is looking beyond cars

According to a new report published in the Wall Street Journal, Porsche Automobil Holding SE, the largest shareholder of the sports car manufacturer's parent company, the Volkswagen Group (Volkswagen AG), is considering a major investment pivot as it cut its full-year earnings guidance due to its current challenges within the automotive industry.

The company, controlled by the Porsche and Piech families — direct descendants of Ferdinand Porsche, is looking to add defense sector investments amid a European Union member state's increase in defense spending. In a statement, Porsche SE noted that it sees “considerable development potential” as it pivots to capitalize on “the backdrop of a changing geopolitical situation and growing security policy requirements” on the continent.

“On our way to becoming a diversified investment platform, we are closely monitoring the areas of defense capability, security, and European resilience,” Porsche SE Chairman Hans Dieter Poetsch said in a statement released on August 13. “With regard to portfolio investments, our aim is to increase our involvement in the defense and defense-related sectors while maintaining our core focus on mobility and industrial technology.”

In its statement, Porsche SE announced that it will establish a platform for investments in lesser-known and emerging firms in the defense sector, alongside other investors and partners. The company aims to “build a bridge between innovation-oriented capital and security-related technologies.” In addition, Porsche SE says that it is planning to hold something it calls “Defense Day,” a future networking-centric event aimed at providing a link between German and European family offices interested in investing in the defense sector and said companies.

Porsche SE also disclosed that it has “successful investments” within the sector, including those in “Isar Aerospace and Quantum Systems, among others.” In line with the current corporate strategy, Porsche SE adds that its future defense investments will focus on tech-focused firms such as those that make satellite surveillance, reconnaissance and sensor systems, cybersecurity, and logistics and supply systems.

Subject: Region website membership dues check

Reply-To: national.pca.org

Hello PCA Region Presidents, Webmasters, and Membership Chairs,

It has been brought to our attention that some Region websites have the old membership dues amounts published.

Could you take a moment to check your Region website to make sure the membership dues are current?

Here are the current rates:

- 1 year..... $56
- 2 years... $110
- 3 years... $162

It would be ideal if all of the PCA websites have the correct information by mid November.

Thank you very much for double checking and updating the membership dues.

Have a great weekend.

Jim
